

Here is why ACS Affiliate membership is for you!

The American College of Surgeons (ACS) is the largest organization of surgeons in the world. With more than 80,000 members, it is uniquely positioned to lead the way in optimal patient care, surgical research, health policy, continuing education, and networking opportunities.

Affiliate membership is open to Non-surgeon physicians and Non-physicians who impact the work of surgeons and the care of surgical patients in a variety of settings.

Non-surgeon Allied Health Professionals and office team members benefit from ACS membership by:

- Demonstrating a commitment to furthering the care of surgical patients: The surgical profession is constantly evolving and ACS is at the forefront of providing quality care for surgical patients
- Remaining engaged in what's happening in this exciting and challenging specialty: The annual Clinical Congress has sessions that focus on the latest advances in the surgical profession and that feature lectures by icons in surgery
- Being current with the issues that matter to the profession: ACS members receive free access to several of the College's well-regarded publications, the Journal of the American College of Surgeons, ACS NewsScope, and the ACS Bulletin
- Connecting with others in your profession: Allied Health Professionals have opportunities to interact with colleagues at seminars, meetings, and in the ACS online Communities.

Affiliate Members receive many "Members-Only" benefits including:

- Discounted registration for select ACS meetings and seminars, including the ACS annual Clinical Congress
- Access to the members-only side of the ACS website
- Discounts on patient education and practice management resources
- Eligibility for enrollment in the College-sponsored insurance program
